

Using Storage

Unit 5.2.2

Using Persistent Storage

Volumes are attached to workloads when they're launched. A workload can create a new PersistentVolumeClaim (PVC) that points to an existing PV or requests a new PV to be created according to a particular storage class.

Once the workload has been created, the PV will be mounted inside the Pod at the designated mountpoint.

References

How Persistent Storage Works -

<https://rancher.com/docs/rancher/v2.x/en/cluster-admin/volumes-and-storage/how-storage-works/>